however, their puff disappeared before the fleet was halfway to the weather mark, leaving them in slower winds than the steady pressure on the right side of the course.

man's concepts cannot correspond exactly to things as they are because before he forms the concept he has already interpreted what he perceives according to his own prejudices and conditioning.

in a chemical peel, a chemical solution is applied to the skin and allowed to soak in